Workshop

Transform your Family History Research into a Book

Join Rhuwina Griffiths, ghostwriter and life story mentor for a hands-on workshop where you'll learn how to turn your family history research into a captivating book. Explore the art of storytelling as you weave together tales from the past to create a compelling account of your ancestor's lives. Practical sessions will cover how to build a chronological framework for your narrative and develop skills for writing engaging stories. Particular emphasis will be placed on developing character that turn your ancestors into compelling characters as well as navigating the delicate path between fact and creative expression.
