Lee Fay and Chinese cabinet makers Lucy Hair

In the early twentieth century, there were at least a dozen furniture factories operated by Chinese people in Perth. Companies like Washing Brothers, See Wah and J. W. Wing became known for quality furniture made by highly skilled cabinet makers. Come and hear more about these companies as well the sad story of Lee Fay, one of the many cabinet makers who worked in Perth in the early 1900s.

Lucy Hair is Project Officer for UWA's Two Centuries of Chinese Heritage in WA project. Lucy is a professional historian with several decades of experience working on WA history projects.
